Synopsis:

While clinicians and lay leaders attempt to help families resolve their diverse issues, many wonder: is there a preventive approach to equipping parents so that unhealthy patterns in families can be averted, families can be more connected, and children can grow up emotionally healthier and resilient?

"Good Enough Parenting" (GEP) is the solution to this pressing need. GEP is an in-depth, research-based, evidence-based parenting programme which zooms in on the emotional and psychological impact of adequately (and inadequately) meeting Core Emotional Needs. It is based on Schema Therapy and endorsed by Dr Jeffrey Young, Department of Psychiatry, Columbia University, New York, and Founder of Schema Therapy.

"Good Enough Parenting" is unique as it incorporates Movie Therapy®, where appropriate movie snippets are shown to highlight key teaching points. GEP currently being taught in schools, corporates and community organisations.

Who should attend:

- Counsellors
- Therapists
- Psychologists
- Social Workers
- Case Workers
- Family Life Educators
- Lay Leaders and Clergy involved in family ministries

Learning Outcomes:

- Identify parenting and family issues using the Good Enough Parenting model
- Address problematic behavior in children and engage couples to work together on addressing these issues.
- Gain deeper understanding of key Schema Therapy tenets such as Core Emotional Needs, maladaptive schemas, positive schemas, schema domains and coping styles
- Learn the interplay of temperament, environment and parenting influences as key factors in the psychosocial and emotional health of children and adults, based on Schema Therapy

About John and Karen Louis

About John and Karen Louis: John Louis holds a PhD from Stirling University, UK while Karen Louis holds a Master in Counselling from Monash University, Australia. John's research provided more robust empirical findings for their "Good Enough Parenting" model, which were published in several reputable journals.

He is a certified Schema Therapist and Supervisor who was trained directly by Dr Jeffrey Young, founder of Schema Therapy; Karen is a Master Solution Focused Practitioner and Gallup Strengths Coach. John and Karen's passion for families led them to develop "Good Enough Parenting" (and its prequel, the "I Choose Us" Marriage Programme) as a response to the pressing need of equipping parents to prevent maladaptive schemas from developing in children. John has presented "Good Enough Parenting" in overseas conferences organized by the International Society of Schema Therapy and has led a round-table discussion on family life education during the National Council on Family Relations (NCFR) Conference 2016 in Vancouver.

Since the launch of Good Enough Parenting in 2009, they have trained over 1,000 Facilitators from Asia, Europe, North America and Australia, and several countries in Central & South America and Africa. Their books: "Good Enough Parenting" (Christian and secular versions) and "I Choose Us" are available via Amazon.com and have been translated into seven languages. The Louis have been married for 32 years and have two married adult children and one grandchild.

What you will receive:

- Certificate of Completion as a 'certified GEP Facilitator'
- Set of handouts

Lunch and tea breaks will be provided throughout the 3-day training.

Testimonials:

"In a world of too much information, Good Enough Parenting teaches parents how to meet core emotional needs, and, at the same time, how to avoid passing down their own dysfunctional behaviors. Schema Therapy has been successful with adults, but I have always wanted to see someone do something on preventing schemas, or Lifetraps, in children, and here it is!"

- Dr Jeffrey Young, Dept. of Psychiatry, Columbia University, NY, Founder, Schema Therapy

"Good Enough Parenting was better than good, it was great! I have been to numerous training sessions on Marriage, Behavior and Parenting, but none as practical and beneficial as GEP. GEP takes an in-depth look in the before, during and after of parenting. We laughed, cried, learned, and shared our victories as well as defeats. Everyone who attended the workshop was truly blessed by this training. It is a MUST for parents as well as grandparents!"

- William R. Scott, PhD in Educational Psychology, Gainesville, Florida

"Good Enough Parenting has definitely created more awareness for me in relation to both my parenting as well as professional development skills. With the insight and awareness, I hope to better my relationship with my children. Professionally, am glad I have another evidence-informed parenting strategy to share with my clients, to facilitate the problem-solving process."

- Geraldine Yang, Principal Counselling Psychologist, Singapore

"Indeed an excellent course that intrigued me even when I saw the brochure. A timely course that addressed my concerns on systemic issues that was affecting families and taught me how to address it effectively. Its fundamental principle of the family being the nucleus and parents being the conduit and catalyst of change is a strong message. Along with the imperative to address active negative schemas in one's own life and getting to the 'root' of the matter are 'wow' moments during the course. Especially love the Repair & Reconnect part which helps me as a mother in my journey with my children and this is something I would love to share to my colleagues."

- Annu Ratha Jayaram, School Counsellor, Singapore
